

Dear Families,

Hooray! Summer is here!

It's time for a well-deserved break, to slow down and recharge ourselves.

Our students made great progress this year in their reading skills. As we all know, reading is THE foundational skill on which all other academics rest. We need to ensure that during the summer months, our students do not lose the skills they worked so hard to develop.

This summer, students have been provided with a "67 Days of Summer Reading" challenge. Every day they read for their required minimum time, they can color in the bubble for that day. Minimum time spent reading is listed at the bottom of the 67 Days flyer. At the end of the summer, they can turn in their signed flyer, and receive a prize.

We are also sending you Suggested Summer Reading lists for each grade level. I hope these books will inspire, entertain and captivate your child's imagination. If you need any additional suggestions, please contact me! I LOVE to give book recommendations - anytime, anywhere!

I hope you have a safe and fun-filled summer.

P.S. Thank you so very much for all the love and support you have given to the library this year. I thank God every day for the privilege to work in a school that values reading and strives to support every reader.
